Guest Speaker: *Nikki Goodwin.*Nikki works at Bellarine Community Health in the Inclusive Dentistry Program.

She was a speech pathologist for many years and this experience has assisted her to work on a project for dental health particularly for children who have autism and other intellectual difficulties. The project initially was to develop an inclusive dental service to support sensory communication and behavioural challenges in people, but it was expanded to include other intellectual disabilities.

Many of these children and adults have poor dental health, their taste is often poor, they cannot brush their teeth properly diet is often poor and their sense of pain is not easily dealt with. The challenge for Nikki and her team was to develop a project which was wide ranging, significant and relevant. A Community reference group included people with wide ranging and Specialist knowledge. The Dental Hospital in Melbourne was also consulted.

A carefully prepared form (over 5 months) was designed to enable patients to enter the program and receive treatment. Personal care specially designed for them is included. Each patient is prepared for the experience very carefully with the knowledge of what expect, e.g., the room, walkways, dental chair, people and timeframe. A 'Dental Show bag' is given prior to the appointment. A virtual tour is also available. The waiting area has been made sensory friendly as this helps to calm children.

Staff are trained and encouraged to do self-assessment, to measure their knowledge and to promote confidence. The program has been very successful as children have allowed treatment from dentists and their co-operation and reduction of fear has been achieved. Treatment is not only for children as there are some adults with intellectual difficulties involved. The treatment is not easy. but the results have been worthwhile. Some people cannot be accommodated but gentle education and persistence is helping. The family of the patients is involved, the community is very supportive.

Nikki was very proud to announce that the service is now embedded and will always be available. It is hoped that other dental workers can be trained to perform this service in other Community Health Centres.

Nikki also acknowledged the team at Point Lonsdale and their willingness to work for many hours to develop and implement the program.
